

Court Sustains Flick Verdict

County Judge Fowler Will Not Set Aside Verdict of Jury Which Held Will of Mary Flick Should Not be Probated.

A motion to set aside the verdict of a jury which brought in a verdict in favor of the contestant of the will of Mary Flick of this city has been denied by County Judge Joseph A. Fowler, who holds that the verdict was sustained by the evidence and that it is not the province of the court to substitute his conclusions of fact for those of the jury.

The will was contested by George Colts and Emma Gensake, a brother and sister, and a verdict in favor of the contestant and against sustaining the will was rendered by the jury. A motion was made by the proponents to set aside the verdict.

In denying such motion, Judge Fowler has handed down the following memorandum:

Motion to set aside the verdict of the jury which found against the will.

The jury in effect found that the paper offered was not executed with the formalities required of a will, and, further, that its execution was induced by undue influence.

Upon such a motion it is not the province of the court to substitute its fact conclusions for that of the jury. The question is, rather, whether there was testimony sufficient to justify the determination reached.

As to the conclusion: The first witness testified as to acts and conversations which would constitute an execution, he was, however, an interested witness, and his credibility was for the jury to pass upon.

In re-Kingberg, 207 N. Y. 236.

The second witness testified he did not see Mrs. Flick sign the instrument, he did, however, hear the will read and she asked him to sign the paper. Whether these with other facts and circumstances to which he testified, were sufficient to constitute an acknowledgment required by statute, was for the jury.

As to undue influence: In view of what has been said it is unnecessary to discuss the question submitted as to undue influence.

The court endeavored to fairly submit to the jury the rules of law applicable to the case, and it does not appear that a verdict such as this, and was contrary to the evidence, contrary to law.

Motion denied.

Robert G. Groves was attorney for the proponent with the Hon. Walter N. Gill of counsel; Van Etten & Cook represented the contestant.

Cardinal Hayes at St. Mary's Jubilee

Cardinal Patrick J. Hayes Presides at Opening Ceremonies of the Seventy-Fifth Anniversary of St. Mary's Church—Dean Joseph G. Cushman Delivers Eloquent Sermon—Services Largely Attended by Clergy, Parishioners and Former Members of Parish.

The opening exercises of the celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of St. Mary's Church, began Sunday morning at 11 o'clock with a solemn high Mass, Cardinal Patrick J. Hayes, presiding.

The celebrant of the Mass was the pastor, the Rev. Joseph B. Scully, with the Rev. Michael J. Larkin of St. Gabriel's Church, New Rochelle, as deacon and the Rev. Stephen Connelly of St. Patrick's Church, Newburgh, sub-deacon. The masters of ceremonies were the Rev. Thomas A. Keane of St. Mary's Church and the Rev. Edmund J. Murray of Staten Island, a Kingston boy.

The sermon was delivered by the Very Rev. Joseph C. Cushman, T. F., pastor of St. Joseph's Church, this city. Special music augmented the regular Chancel and the Holy Name Choir.

Seated within the sanctuary were visiting clergy from the diocese and other parishes of the diocese, which included former assistants at St. Mary's. The church edifice was taxed to its capacity, members of the parish and former members attending the Mass. Members of Kingston Council, Fourth Degree Assembly, Knights of Columbus, attended the services and acted as an escort to the cardinal.

Cardinal's Congratulations.

Cardinal Hayes at the conclusion of the Mass congratulated the parishioners of St. Mary's on the event of its seventy-fifth anniversary. "As a boy the cardinal said that he had heard of St. Mary's, Rondout, from his father, who told him of the staunch character of the people who settled up the Hudson. He had also heard as a priest about St. Mary's from Cardinal Farley and grew to love this parish. The result of the labors of the pioneer pastors and parishioners was evidenced in this temple of God, which stands as a monument to their zeal and perseverance. The work of renovating and strengthening the church was needed and the pastor, Father Scully, was prepared to meet its need with the generous support of the congregation. The same spirit of the pioneers is still in the hearts of the people of the present congregation. The remodeling and beautifying of this temple, which stood for seventy-five years, where innumerable prayers were offered, and with its hallowed memories and traditions was better than building a new one and reflects great credit on the young pastor and to the parishioners for their cooperation. It is obvious that the memories of those gone before are cherished and revered within your memories and that their faith is being emulated. He also said that St. Mary's sent more young men and women into the religious life than any other parish of its size in the diocese. This same spirit of loyalty prevails throughout the diocese today. Within the past month the cardinal said he had presided at the laying of cornerstones of four schools and had blessed eight churches. The entire diocese today joins with you in this celebration and extends their congratulations. The urgency of the people today upon the priests and bishops tells an eloquent story of the love for the church. In closing, the cardinal conferred the apostolic blessing.

Dean Cushman's Sermon.

Father Cushman in his sermon gave a review of the history of the parish and admonished the present congregation to carry out the work of their forebears.

Father Cushman told of the struggles of the pioneer priests and people stressing upon the work of the Rev. Philip O'Reilly, who had charge of the missions and churches along the Hudson river. He also told of the early difficulties encountered by the pioneers, and how the church was favored, having been blessed with faithful, zealous pastors. The growth of the church in the diocese he said advanced from nine churches under Pope Gregory to 450 at the present time. The work of the late Right Rev. Monsignor Burtwell, D. D., and the Very Rev. John J. Hickey, who had labored in the church for many years was highly praised by Dean Cushman. Father Hickey, who is sick, was unable to be present. He also spoke of the young men, who were recruited from the parish to become priests of the Kingdom of God and to the girls, who left their mothers and fathers to become brides of the church. In referring to St. Mary's boys in the priesthood, the names of the Rt. Rev. Mons. Joseph F. Mooney, V. G., and the Rt. Rev. Mons. M. J. Fitzpatrick and the Rev. Michael J. Larkin, superintendent of schools of New York, was mentioned. He also spoke of the pastors and assistants, who had been honored by their church in high stations.

The Dean also praised the efforts of the present pastor and likened Father Hickey as the last of the old regime and Father Scully the beginner of the new. He also praised the work of the people for their cooperation and exhorted them to continue this work.

Clergy Present.

The Rev. John P. Neumann, pastor of St. Peter's Church, this city, and the Rev. Henry O'Carroll of Newburgh were the deacons of honor to the Cardinal and the assistant priests were the Very Rev. Mons. M. J. Fitzpatrick and the Very Rev. Mons. Stephen Donohue, D. D., secretary to the Cardinal, who acted as masters of ceremonies to the Cardinal.

The other priests seated in the sanctuary were the Very Rev. Mons. Joseph T. McMahon, of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, New York city, the Very Rev. Dean Cushman, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, this city, the Rev. Ignatius Dzialoga, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, this city, the Rev. John F. Duffy, of St. Mary's, the Rev. John Smith of Rhinecliff, the Rev. Edward P. Higgins of Peekskill, the Rev. James

Help Coolidge, Committee Asks

Republican City Committee Asks Voters Not to Embarrass President By Giving Him Democratic Congress—Matter of Principle to Help Him.

The Republican committee has issued the following letter to all Republicans of the city of Kingston, but does not limit its appeal simply to city voters but to all voters of Ulster county:

REPUBLICAN CITY COMMITTEE
J. Charles Snyder, Chairman.
Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Secretary.
To the Republicans of the City of Kingston:

The Republican City Committee understands that an appeal is being made to Kingston voters to support William C. DeWitt, the Democratic candidate for Member of Congress upon the ground that he is a resident of the City of Kingston.

If you are voting for Coolidge and Dawes, it is important that you vote for the Republican nominee for Member of Congress, Honorable Harcourt J. Pratt, of Highland, Ulster county. If you believe in Calvin Coolidge you should see to it that he has a Republican Congress to assist him and not a Democratic Congress to embarrass him. This is not a personal matter, it is a matter of principle.

Vote for Harcourt J. Pratt, the Republican candidate for Congress, and thus support the policies and the coming administration of President Coolidge, and get your neighbors and friends to do the same.

Very truly yours,
REPUBLICAN CITY COMMITTEE.

Roosevelt Makes Last Appeal

"Shall Tammany Control the State?" is Dominant Issue, He Says, and Roosevelt Family Has Fought That Organization for Generations.

New York, Nov. 3.—Displaying his famous smile Colonel Roosevelt, Republican candidate for governor, today predicted a sweeping victory for his party in this state at the polls tomorrow.

"We will win big," Colonel Roosevelt declared. "I know I am right, for I have seen the people of almost every county. The voters realize their future is bound up with the success of Calvin Coolidge and our state ticket. They know that in state and nation Republicans are the same."

The colonel will spend the day at his home in Oyster Bay, Long Island, where, as his father did before him on the eve of election, he will hold a "home folks" day. He will deliver a last minute talk on the issues of the campaign tonight before a meeting of Italian voters.

Roosevelt showed plainly the strain of his intensive campaign. Within three weeks he has swept over the state and city with 300 speeches. Veteran politicians declare this establishes a record in campaigning history.

In his last appeal to the electorate for support, Roosevelt said the dominant issue of the campaign is, "shall Tammany control the state of New York?"

"I am opposed to Tammany and all it stands for," Roosevelt said. "We have fought Tammany for generations in my family. Tammany believes that the state should be run for politics. I believe that politics should be run for the state.

"Our opponents, when you get down to case facts, are the Tammany organization, regardless of how they may try to conceal their identity for popular consumption."

Colonel Roosevelt will vote early tomorrow and then rest at his home in preparation for receiving the returns of the election.

FARM AND HOME BUREAU AT PLATTEKILL

The Modena and Plattekill Farm and Home Bureau will hold a joint meeting at the Plattekill Grange Hall, Friday evening, November 7, at 8 o'clock. A short play will be given by local talent. Farm and Home Bureau games will be played and short speeches, after which lunch will be served cafeteria style by the ladies. Everybody welcome. Admission free.

Payment Stopped on Palenville Road Work

Ulster County Officials Discover Grade Was Changed After Contract Was Awarded Which Would Increase Cost to County by $15,000—Fills Not Properly Compacted—Other Variations.

As the result of an investigation by county officials, County Attorney John W. Eckert advised County Treasurer Van Etten to stop payments on the Palenville state road, now under construction, and the reasons for such action are set forth in the following letter:

November 1, 1924.
To Honorable John D. Frasier, Saugerties, N. Y.
My Dear Sir:

In reply to your telephone request, as to whether or not the county treasurer has refused payment of drafts drawn by the Highway Department to the order of the contractor on the Saugerties-Palenville highway, I beg to advise you that the county treasurer has refused payment of such drafts within the past week, and upon my advice. My reasons for such action are as follows:

The plans for the road in question were approved originally on February 14th, 1923, by the board of supervisors of this county. Subsequently the plans were revised by the Highway Department, and as revised, were finally approved by Mr. Loughran, the county superintendent of highways of this county, September 6th, 1923, by Lowell Grossman, state highway commissioner, on September 7th, 1923, by the board of supervisors on the 20th day of September, 1923, and by the town board of your town September 24th, 1923. The plans as finally approved specified the grades, type of construction, method of construction and all the necessary pertinent information.

After the approval of the plans as aforesaid, the Highway Department advertised for proposals to construct the road, and proposals were submitted, together with other contractors, by Winston & Co., of this county, S. B. Van Wagenen, Inc., of this county, and the John L. Hayes Construction Company of Yonkers, to whom the contract was awarded as the lowest bidder.

The proposal and bid submitted by the Hayes Construction Company contained no unit price on rock excavation, which the Highway Department engineers estimated at $5.00 cubic yards, and the cost of rock excavation according to the Highway Department's engineers was $3 per yard.

Sometime between the final approval of the plans for this road and the time when the contract was awarded I am informed that Mr. Grossman, who is highway commissioner, approved the plans, severed his connection with the Highway Department and became interested in the construction of the road in question either as an employee or a person financially interested in the Hayes Construction Company. In any event for some time past he has been in charge of the work of construction on the road, and was in charge at the time payment was stopped on the Highway Department drafts.

The contractor commenced early in the summer and has continued up until the present time.

On or about September 15th, of this year James O. Winston, a member of Winston & Company and an engineer and contractor of standing, who is also a citizen and resident of your town, came to my office and inquired as to whether the board of supervisors or the county officials had approved of any change in the grade of the road in question or of the plans for its construction. I told him no changes had been approved and so far as I knew the road was being progressed in accordance with the plans as finally approved and the specifications set forth in the contract. Mr. Winston most earnestly protested to me that the bidders on the road had not been afforded the same opportunity as the contractor who was successful in obtaining the contract, for the following reasons: Mr. Winston stated to me that the contract proposals promulgated by the Highway Department, and a copy of which he exhibited to me, set forth as an item of the contract the removal of 8,500 cubic yards of rock at an estimated cost of $3 per yard, aggregating $25,500 for that item. He stated to me that his company, and the other unsuccessful contractors, according to his information had included in their estimates the cost of such rock excavation but that the successful bidder had bid zero or nothing upon that item. He further stated that after the work had been commenced the plans had been so changed as to grade, that the contractor was not being required to make any rock excavation for by the plans at all, but that the change in grade necessitated a fill for which the contractor was receiving $1.65 per cubic yard in place of being required to make the rock excavation for which under his bid he would have received nothing.

Mr. Winston further stated to me that the road was not being constructed according to the specifications in that the earth fill which was being made would form a very poor foundation for the concrete pavement which, as the result of an investigation by county officials, County Attorney John W. Eckert advised County Treasurer Van Etten to stop payments on the Palenville state road, now under construction, and the reasons for such action are set forth in the following letter:

November 1, 1924.

Five Injured by Too Much Speed

Auto Driven By Percy Parker Snapped Off Electric Light Pole Near City Home Sunday Night—Four Are Still in Kingston City Hospital.

Five people were injured and three others had a narrow escape when a big Studebaker automobile owned by Walter S. Wells of Albany avenue extension, and driven by Percy Parker of Hurley avenue, shot off the road on Flatbush avenue, near the City Home, shortly before midnight Sunday and crashed into an electric light pole, snapping it off at the butt, and wrecking the auto.

Those Injured.

The five who were injured were removed to the Kingston City Hospital where two of them are seriously injured. The fifth member of the party was able to leave the hospital after having her wounds dressed.

Those at the hospital are: Percy Parker of Hurley avenue, possible internal injuries. Charles Jansen of 221 East Union street, a possible fractured skull. An X-ray will be taken later to determine the extent of the injury.

Mrs. Charles Jansen of 221 East Union street, a dislocation of the right arm and cuts about the head and body.

Miss Jennie Elting, 145 Jansen avenue, both knees injured.

Miss Viola Elting, 145 Jansen avenue, cut about the hand. She later left the hospital.

Two Much Speed.

According to the story told the police by Miss Viola Elting, who is 19 years old, some one in the back seat of the automobile kept urging Parker, who was driving the car, to "step on it." He did.

As a result, the big car plumed off the road, crashing against a large electric light pole, snapping it off at the butt. The auto is badly wrecked. Parker was blinding the party of seven back to Kingston from East Kingston at the time of the accident.

Others in Party.

The three others in the car, who did not require medical care, were Fred Perkins, John Weaver and a young man known as "Dutch Nelson."

City Home in Darkness.

As a result of the snapping off of electric light pole, the wires carried on the pole were snapped off and the City Home and other buildings using electric light were forced to depend on other means of illumination until repairs could be made by the electric company.

The pole that was broken off carried one of the large transformers, but fortunately for those in the automobile it did not fall upon them.

From there he disappeared and it was testified that no findings had been received since as to his whereabouts. Clarke was afflicted with tuberculosis and the belief is that he was dead. Francis C. Merritt appeared for the plaintiff.

Material Dealers Met With Curtin

Only Man Enjoying Confidence of Each Individual Material Dealer in New York Whose Total Business Exceeds Six Billion Dollars.

C. J. Curtin, honorary president of the Ulster County Society in the city of New York, presided at a luncheon held in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, Friday, of the building material dealers of the Metropolitan district. There were 72 representatives present, who supply practically all the material in the construction of the great monuments and mass of buildings that have been erected in New York in the last three years. The gathering represented in capital invested in their businesses about $500,000,000 and did a business in 1923 of over six billions in this country.

The gathering was brought about by the Ulster county man who came from High Falls, and whose influence and close cooperation among the dealers resulted in one of the largest gatherings of men aligned with this industry ever assembling in New York.

In his opening remarks Mr. Curtin outlined briefly the purpose of calling the men together. He said among other things he believed the time had arrived when a better spirit of cooperation should prevail in the building industry of the great metropolis. He told of the great magnitude of the business, which stood second only to that of agriculture, and gave the figures of the building in New York by months for 1924, which are as follows: January, 23,000,000 square feet, value, $108,000,000; February, 20,000,000 square feet, value $107,000,000; March, 22,000,000, $108,000,000; April, 25,000,000, $109,000,000; May, 18,000,000 square feet, value, $100,000,000; June, 14,000,000, $91,000,000; July, August and September, about $90,000,000.

At the close of the luncheon a rising vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Curtin for his successful efforts in bringing about the gathering, as they appreciated the fact that he was practically the only man in New York who enjoyed the confidence of each individual dealer.

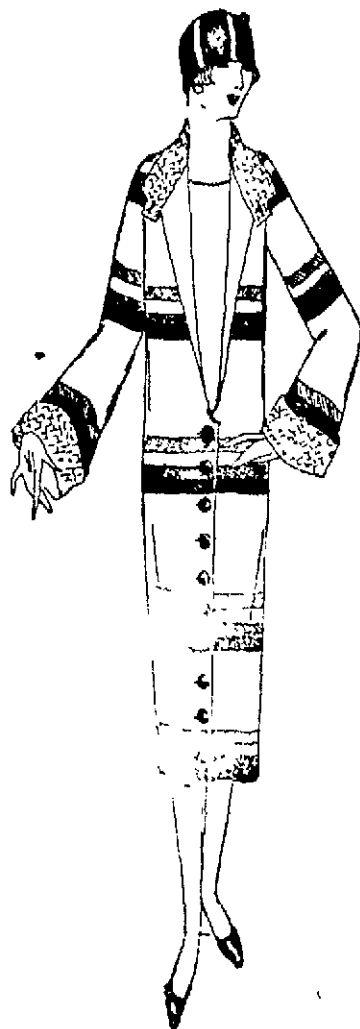

John G. Jones, vice president of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, was present and gave a most interesting talk.

A COAT IN AUTUMN'S SPIRIT.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

One has only to attend an outdoor event such as a horse show, football, and so on, to be convinced that the vogue for knitted things is not short lived. An astonishing number of women approve one and two-piece frocks of this character. Some approve separate coats, while sweaters, which are seldom written about, are, nevertheless, worn.

Rodier, whose reputation for smart fabrics is world-wide, is responsible for the smartly striped material used for this slim coat, lined with a knitted fabric and trimmed with loops of wool. So popular have the autumnal shades been this season that it seems hardly necessary to state that the coloring is nature's own. From having no buttons at all, this coat seems to have taken a decided stand by adding them, in groups of three,—this releasing the hands

Coats with revers are a gesture toward the Directorate, whether the revers are fur or cloth depends on the individual, or the individual's exchequer. As a matter of fact, the price of the all-fur coat is, all things considered, distinctly less than the fur-trimmed one. Of course there are hip-length fur jackets which need not necessarily entail a big expenditure.

Pony skin is among the pelts in use, and is often rather smartly combined with long-haired fur. The use of Australian opossum is still reported from smart sports circles, though this is secondary to leopard. Among the more elegant furs is mountain sable, in its soft coloring at least not inaptly named. Summer ermine, being brown, has a status which is unquestioned.

An Appeal to Voters—The Park Bond Issue Will Benefit All Parts of the State—Vote "Yes" On It.

Proposition No. 1 to be voted upon tomorrow, provides for a bond issue of $15,000,000 for enlarging and improving existing state parks and reservations and establishing a unified system of state parks.

It is a measure in the interests of the public health in that it provides for the protection from pollution of the watersheds from which come the water supplies to the cities.

It provides for continuing the state's policy of conserving our forests on a broader scale by the appropriation of $5,000,000 for enlarging the forest preserve.

It gives to all sections of the state more opportunities for outdoor recreation by enlarging and improving existing public parks and establishing new ones.

It will increase property values in the vicinity of such parks and add to the financial resources of the state by providing attractive developments in all sections of the state that will affect favorably their surroundings.

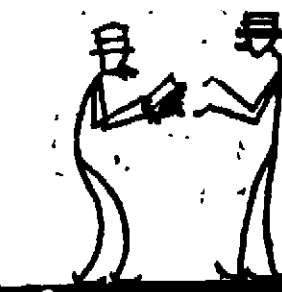

The measure had the unanimous approval of the legislature of 1924, passing both the senate and the assembly without a dissenting vote.

The development provided for in the bond issue is not limited to one or two sections of the state, but is spread over the entire state giving to the people of all localities a fair share of the state's recreational facilities in accordance with a carefully worked out plan for a unified park system.

Both of the great political parties have approved the proposed bond issue and at their recent conventions adopted planks in their platforms advocating its adoption.

It is the only proposition to be submitted to the voters at the coming election and appears on a separate ballot. To vote for the proposition, the voter should make a cross mark in the square at the right of the word "Yes", or if the voting is done on a machine, pull the lever over to the word "Yes".

Vote "Yes" on the park bond issue.

Who bought the Brooklyn Bridge to-day?

ALMOST every day the Brooklyn Bridge is sold to some gullible visitor to New York. Every day someone is swindled. Selling this famous old bridge has become a national joke.

Suppose, however, the City of New York decided really to sell the Brooklyn Bridge—to give the buyer the privilege of placing a toll on all who crossed it. They would advertise it for sale. And the prospective purchaser would know the offer to be genuine.

He would know that the paper would not accept the advertisement if it were intended to defraud. He would know that the advertiser would not dare advertise unless his offer were honest.

The advertisement would give the world confidence in the enterprise.

Just as the advertising of all merchandise gives the world confidence in that merchandise. Only honest products can tell their stories where all may read.

That is why it pays to read advertisements. You can rely on advertised goods. You know that a worthy manufacturer stands back of them. They are a guide to better buying. They teach you to spend wisely—economically—and with the knowledge that you are buying merchandise which is minus all vain regrets or misrepresented values.

Read the advertisements every day.

Advertising is a bridge—spanning the river of doubtful values—to the shore of worthy merchandise.

Uncut Felt Used in Fall Chapeau

Brim Sewed to Crown, Feature of Latest Headgear Shown in Paris.

The present trend of Paris millinery is decidedly toward felt, usually uncut and invariably untrimmed, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Herald-Tribune. This classic model was designed by Reboux and has about ten variations. The distinctive feature of these hats is that the brim is sewed to the crown, overlapping the crown on the outside at about an inch and a half from the head size. The two ends of the piece of felt, which form the brim, are drawn one over the other and cut into winglike points, which protrude from both sides and are shaped in a manner most becoming to the wearer. Sometimes these points are knotted, but, however treated, they are always placed at the back or right-side back. Black felt, gray felt, beige, light blue and even pale pink are used in the makeup of these extremely chic small hats.

Various Mourning Colors

Black is not universally used as a sign of mourning. The South sea Islanders use black and white stripes, indicating sorrow and hope, while in Ethiopia a grayish brown, the color of the earth, is worn. In Persia the mourning color is light brown, and in Syria and Armenia sky blue, an indication of heaven. In Turkey it is violet, and in China white, as an emblem of hope.

Simultaneous Ideas

Darwin originated the natural selection theory of evolution, so far as he himself was concerned, but it is a curious fact that by an extraordinary coincidence Alfred Russel Wallace formulated the same theory at the very same time of its utterance by Darwin. Both men published articles presenting this theory in the same number of the Journal of the Linnean society in 1858.

Earliest Anesthetic

Either was the earliest-known anesthetic. It was discovered probably as far back as the Thirteenth century. For a long time it was supposed to contain sulphur, and hence the name "sulphuric ether" was applied to it. Its true composition was established by Saurure (1807) and by Gay-Lussac (1815). Later Williamson explained its formation and chemical constitution.

World's Oldest Umbrella

The oldest umbrella in the world still in the same condition as when it was bought, including the cover, is in the possession of a resident of Hobart in Tasmania. It has been handed down from generation to generation and still belongs to a descendant of the first owner.

Also a Counter Irritant

Beaded Envelope Purse Is Always Attractive

An envelope purse of moire silk, beaded with steel beads is very attractive. About three-eighths yard each of moire silk and satin for the lining will be needed. Cut the silk 13 by 17 1/2 inches. Stamp a simple design on one or both sides of the silk, about five-eighths inch from the end, and work it out in steel beads. Cut a piece of cardboard 5 1/2 by 12 1/2 inches, and a piece of buckram 12 1/2 by 17 1/2 inches. Insert both between the silk and satin, fitting the cardboard in the plain end of the silk. Turn in the edges of the bag and sew neatly. Make side gussets 2 1/2 by 4 1/2 inches, two of the silk and two of the satin. Sew each piece of silk to the lining, turn inside out and seam across the narrow end. Fold the plain end of the bag 5 1/2 inches. Insert the gussets so that the seamed edge fits into the fold, and sew to each side of the purse in an overhand stitch. Fold over the other end and secure with a snap fastener.

New Neckwear

Organdie neckwear has come into its own once more. We see many delightful treatments of this becoming material. A wide collar and cuffs of white organdie have tiny bands of green figured together and attached to the collar. The bands are of three different tones of the green, ranging from light to dark.

Dog Finds Gold

A boy was playing with a dog near the old Hill End field at Sydney, when the dog scratched up a sample of gold. Investigation showed a reef carrying three ounces of gold to the ton, and a battery was promptly installed.

AUTUMN'S OUTDOOR CLOTHES ARE GAY

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Not even the brilliancy of an autumnal day can detract from the vividly colored sports clothes in which women take their last fling at the outdoor life.

Red, in all its tonal blendings, is paramount, with all russet and tawny colorings, soft greens, and here and there a purple or leaden lavender tint to add interest.

Kasha cloths are greatly used for sports clothes, and knitted suits and topeas are uniform, topped with unbound felts, which neatly always match the coat. This was the dominant idea at a very smart outdoor horshow, and at this worth while event, the importance of gray felts was very pronounced. Such hats have a minimum of trimming, and are therefore rather youthful and informal.

Rose Descat's new ridged crown was bordered on either side with alternating silver and gold buttons, on one black felt, and on another, a larger hat, the base of the felt crown had a single row of silver and gold buttons, the brim being of gold plush.

The embroidered sports coat, the plaid coat and dress, or the huge black—all are important factors. Coats are ample and easily slipped on over the snug, short-coated suit, middy, or tunic tops occur frequently, sometimes fur bordered, and in one instance the middy of a fine gray knit dress, the skirt of which was in two tiers, was collared, cuffed and bordered with green.

While skirts give a straight line, group platings are not infrequent, and are usually placed at the side, and are usually placed at the side, and are usually placed at the side.

VOTING RIGHT.

The eve of election finds most men and women voters with minds fully made up how they will vote tomorrow. Ulster county has been particularly free from the bitter personalities which have marked some campaigns. Voters have considered issues and candidates from many angles. The three principal parties have held public meetings where issues and men have been discussed, newspapers have published the statements and claims of the various leading candidates and campaign managers, the radio has borne the speeches of candidates to the homes of thickly settled sections and remote, isolated places. The greatest danger to American political government is from overconfidence or indifference which may result in men and women neglecting their duty to vote.

Calvin Coolidge has the full confidence of the American people and this fact was clearly demonstrated by the convention which nominated him. Long before the convention was held the states had exhibited the crystallized sentiment of the people and no national convention ever was more quickly responsive to public sentiment than the Republican convention which nominated Coolidge and Dawes. Their record is along the pathway of constructive statesmanship for the benefit of all the people, regardless of section, race or creed. They stand for the highest type of American manhood and ideals.

The Republican state ticket appeals with equal strength to the common sense of the thoughtful voter. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt has demonstrated the rare qualities of ability, bravery, honesty and leadership which endeared his father to the people of New York state and the United States. His experience in public office, where he has also performed exacting duties requiring thorough knowledge and sound judgment, especially fit him to assume the grave responsibilities of governor of the Empire State. His associates on the state ticket were selected by regularly elected delegates because of their pre-eminent qualifications for the offices for which they were nominated. One among them is a woman, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, candidate for secretary of state, whose position as head of the Department of Home Economics of Syracuse University has long placed her in the foremost rank of women whose activities are for the practical betterment of men and women.

Of the local candidates, Harcourt J. Pratt, nominee for Representative in Congress, and Arthur F. Bouton, for state senator, will be voted for by other counties besides Ulster. Their records show them especially qualified for these important offices. To vote for Coolidge and Dawes and for Colonel Roosevelt without supplying them with law-making bodies in full sympathy with their constructive policies is to cast only half a vote for continued American ideals and economical administration of public affairs. Therefore, the thoughtful voter also will vote for Millard Davis for assemblyman, his training as a lawyer and his practical experience with the agricultural and business interests of the county giving him special qualifications which should be borne in mind.

The records of County Judge Joseph M. Fowler, County Clerk John H. Saxe and Coroner George Suiter are so familiar to the voters they need no further commendation. Their work has been performed satisfactorily and they will continue so to perform it. Mr. Suiter, of course, has no opposition.

From top to bottom, the Republican ticket presents an admirable selection. There can be no greater tribute to efficiency Tuesday than a vote for each Republican candidate when the voter—man or woman—enjoys the voting booth.

ENDORING LAFOLLETTE.

One of the most remarkable documents issued during the campaign which is now closing is that containing the resolutions and report of the political committee of the Steuben Society of America and issued with the title, "Why we are for LaFollette." The report in some respects is an elaboration, in other respects a condemnation, of the views frequently expressed before, during and since the World War by the German-American Alliance, and it finds neither in platform nor candidates of the Republican or Democratic parties, nor in General Dawes, the whole-souled support of Germany as against the other nations of the world to which the old hyphenated-American alliance and its successor believe should be displayed by political parties of the United States.

Therefore, the resolutions hold both the Republican and Democratic parties equally "responsible for deliberate discrimination against American citizens of German blood in disregard of the historic debt due them;" deprecate the Dawes plan, which is now in full operation on the part of America, Germany and the Allies; declare that the proposal to loan $200,000,000 to the German Republic, secured by liens upon German railroads and industries "is confiscatory and unnecessary;" and that the Allen Property Custodian is holding $350,000,000, "which, if returned, would enable the republic to help itself."

In conclusion the Steuben Society "views with sincere gratification and satisfaction" the career of LaFollette, and would consider itself recreant if it did not prove mindful of his attitude "during the dark days of emotional dementia," and endorses LaFollette and Wheeler. Like LaFollette, the Steuben Society not only kicks at shadows but also at the place where the shadows formerly lay. The war is over, but LaFollette and the Steuben Society do not know it.

PASSING IT ALONG.

Some one has said "Happiness really never was any good in this world except to give away. You can lend it but you cannot borrow it. You can earn it, but you can't buy it."

In other words the happy person is the one who is passing happiness along to other people.

Now what I've been thinking, is about some folks who suffer a great deal with their "nerves."

Sometimes they call it simply "nerves," at other times neurasthenia, and again hysteria. They are not dull people at all. They are normal in brain power as far as you can see, but there is something just a little unstable about them.

If somebody comes along and happens to tell them that they look badly, that their symptoms are very serious, and that they should consult a doctor at once, they actually take it all as the whole truth, whereas the "friend" who tells them this does not know much, never did know much, this nervous person knows this, and yet he takes it all, as I said above, as if it were the actual truth. In other words, he doesn't call to his aid his own common sense, but accepts the "suggestion" of his "illness" without a moment's thought. In fact he is "easy," as it were, along this line, is actually on the "look out" for his friends and acquaintances to tell him about his health. What's the trouble behind this man's condition?

Simply that he is thinking of himself all the time.

His mind is on anything and everything that has to do with him and his. He thinks of his health all the time, of his comfort, of his work, everything "his."

He spends so much time thinking about himself that no matter how busy he is, he gets very narrow in his outlook. He makes of himself, as it were, a regular pile of inflammable material, and then goes around looking for some one to put a match to it. There follows naturally, a most terrific headache, an attack of nerves, of mental depression, of hysteria.

Does this mean that this kind of person is selfish?

Not necessarily. But it does mean that by thinking of himself he doesn't think enough of others, and therefore is not in a position to pass along "happiness" to others.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

BAEDEKER.
The first "Baedeker" as the little guide book familiar to European travelers are generally known, was issued in 1837 by Karl Baedeker, who was born in Edsen, Germany, 123 years ago today, November 3, 1861. The Baedeker family has been engaged in the publishing and selling of books for about three centuries, and when Karl entered the business established by his ancestors at Coblenz, he decided to add the publication of handbooks for "trippers" to the line. The idea was suggested to him by the success of a similar series published by an English firm. The first "Baedekers" dealt with the Rhine, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland and Austria. They were so successful that the firm devoted its entire energies to the production of such works. Originally published only in the German tongue, later editions were issued in English and French. Karl Baedeker died at Coblenz in 1899, and the business was continued and extended by his sons, who removed the headquarters of the company to Leipzig. Karl Baedeker was buried at Coblenz and his grave has been visited by many grateful tourists.

LAODICE.
Laodice was a sister of Mithridates, the great king of Pontus, and flourished about B. C. 120. She first married Ariarthes VII King of Cappadocia, but he being assassinated by order of Mithridates she next married Nicomedes, king of Bithynia, who had taken possession of Cappadocia. She was put to death by Mithridates for plotting his own assassination. Laodice was also the name of a queen of Cappadocia, who was put to death by the people for poisoning five of her children.

SANDWICHES.
The first sandwich, so-called, was made of two large slabs of bread with a slice of ham between, and was devoured by the fourth Earl of Sandwich, who was born 206 years ago today, November 3, 1718. This Earl, like most of the English nobles of that time, was devoted to games of chance, and it was this predilection that was responsible for the application of his name to the sandwich. When the stakes ran high the belted Earl was unable to tear himself away from the gaming table, and it was his custom to order servants to bring him slices of bread and ham. Other devotees of the goddess of luck followed his example, and gave the name of sandwich to the combination of bread and meat. The passion for gambling is no longer so prevalent as in the Earl of Sandwich's time, but the rush and hurry of modern life have given the sandwich a wide popularity. The noble who first invented the sandwich evidently did not spend all his time at the gaming table, however, as he was long first lord of the admiralty, and held high positions in the English government.

All the Details

Young Si had just returned from the city, and his chum was asking him about the experiences, in particular how he enjoyed eating in an automat restaurant.

"How do they work?" the friend asked.

"Well, you put your nickel in the watchman's call and press the thingy-umb, and the doohinkus turns around and gives you your food," explained Si.

"Isn't that marvelous?" echoed the chum. "I knew they were wonderful things, but I didn't heard the details before."

HIGHWAY BUILDING UNDER FEDERAL AID

Since 1916, when the federal aid road act was passed by congress, up to March 1, 1924, federal-aid highways which had been completed in the United States totaled 33,036 miles. There were under construction at that time 13,500 additional miles of roads. These were reported as 59 per cent complete on that date.

The total cost of this great work, including the roads under construction, is estimated by Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the United States bureau of roads, as $944,499,300, of which $372,721,900 was paid by the federal government and the balance by the various states in accordance with the co-operative terms of the law.

For the fiscal year 1925, beginning July 1, 1924, the government has appropriated for further federal-aid road construction a total of $73,125,000, which brings the total government financial outlay for this purpose since the enactment of the law to $445,846,900.

The apportionment of the federal aid fund for the fiscal year 1925 for all the states, which has just been announced by the bureau of public roads, is as follows:

States	Amount
Alabama	1,642,052.56
Arizona	1,058,002.56
Arkansas	1,259,857.87
California	2,464,980.78
Colorado	1,261,482.95
Connecticut	475,813.81

Highway Costs Exceed Connecticut Auto Fees

More than $1,400,000 in excess of automobile fees was spent toward improving the highways of Connecticut during the 1923 fiscal year. Motorcar fees received by the state for the year aggregated $4,182,140, while the expense for highway work was $5,574,540.

Statistics just compiled by the state highway department show that since 1913 the number of motor vehicles increased from 27,180 to 190,350 in 1923. This includes commercial trucks and passenger cars. At the same time the mileage of surfaced roads increased from 923 at the close of 1913 to 1,770 for 1923.

Connecticut's automobile registration for the fiscal year was 180,369 cars. New Haven led all other cities with a total of 17,088, represented by 13,716 passenger cars and 4,272 trucks. Hartford was a close second with 17,427, exceeding New Haven in passenger vehicles with 14,053, but fell below in trucks with 3,369. Bridgeport came third, with a total of 14,015 cars, followed by Waterbury, 8,432; New Britain, 5,333, and Stamford, 5,819.

Contracts pending in Fairfield, New Haven, Middlesex and New London counties on the improvement of the Boston Post road will materially increase in a few months the payments made in these districts.

Better Roads Stimulate Raising of Live Stock

The raising of live stock has been greatly stimulated through the development of good roads. Proof of this statement is found in the great increase in the number of hogs which now go to market via the motortruck. The old custom was to drive the stock to market with the resulting loss due to overheating and shrinkage, which caused a drop in the market price. But now, through the medium of good roads and the motortruck, the farmer is enabled to haul his cattle, hogs and sheep to the railroad siding or, better yet, directly to the stock yards, at a great saving of time and money.

Eliminate Crossings

Ten of the most dangerous grade crossings on the Long Island railroad will be eliminated in the immediate future and others will follow in rapid succession. As a result of a long series of hearings the New York state transit commission has ordered the work to proceed at once. Approximately $3,000,000 will be expended and the points affected will include two on the Atlantic and Port Washington divisions and eight divisions on the thickly traveled Montauk division.

SHADY.

Shady, Nov. 1.—A surprise party was given by the guests of Cold Spring House on Thursday evening, October 23, to Mr. and Mrs. Martin MacDaniel of Shady, on their 17th wedding anniversary and a most enjoyable evening was engaged in by all. One of the features of the evening was a mock wedding, Charles DuBois played the part of bride while Mrs. James Mackey acted as groom, Lincoln Mac Daniel acted as dominie and Barnett Mac Daniel, gave the blushing bride away. The happy party marched in to the peals of the wedding march played by Francis Baker. Several games were enjoyed and prizes awarded. The first prize was taken by Martin MacDaniel for pinning on the dokey's tail. Mr. and Mrs. Martin MacDaniel were presented with some gifts, also a shower of rice. Some of the gifts contained funny little rhymes, which the happy couple were compelled to read aloud to the amusement of all. After greeting the folks and expressing their deep gratitude for the expressions of friendship, Mrs. MacDaniel said, she was just as happy today as she was October 23, seventeen years ago. So she consulted a fortune teller, who gave her a concoction of garlic, water, mud and boiled shoes to throw upon all the beautiful women in the city. ## Kingston's Vote In Other Years

How City Voted for President and Governor Since the Bryan Family Has Had a Place on Democratic National Ticket—Vote by Districts Four and Two Years Ago.

Every year when a president and a governor are elected, there are numerous arguments as to the way the city of Kingston has voted in other years, interest being especially keen on election day and election night because complete returns from the city are available on election night while the complete returns of the county of Ulster are not available until the following day.

There is greater interest than usual in the Kingston city result this year for several reasons. For instance, older voters first acquainted with the Bryan family name on the presidential electors' ballot in 1896—nearly a quarter of a century ago, when Brother William J. first ran for president. This year, Brother Charles has a place under the Democratic emblem as a candidate for vice president.

Voters will meet the name of Governor Alfred E. Smith on the ballot for the fourth time as a candidate for governor. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's name appears on the ballot for the first time, but voters first met with the name of his father, the late President Theodore Roosevelt, in 1898, when he was elected governor.

Beginning With Bryan.

Since present day Democracy runs back to 1896—the year in which the Bryan Brothers began running on the Democratic national ticket. The Freeman herewith presents the total city vote in each presidential and gubernatorial election, beginning with Bryan, as follows:

1896.
For Governor—Frank S. Black, 2,740; Wilbur F. Porter, 2,362. Black's plurality, 378.

1900.
For Governor—Theodore Roosevelt, 2,860; Augustus Van Wyck, 2,456. Roosevelt's plurality, 395.

1904.

THE ERASER

"I am almost nothing," said the eraser.

"What do you mean by that?" the pencil asked.

"What I said," the eraser answered.

"You never were very big," the pencil remarked.

"True," the eraser said, "but I amounted to more than I do now."

"I had a nice little place here at the end of you, pencil, and I was a pretty good eraser."

"But now I have been rubbed down to almost nothing. That is what I meant when I said I was almost nothing."

"I understand," the pencil answered. "You saw," the eraser said, "I have been used so much. I couldn't keep in very good condition that way."

" weren't you put there for use?" the pencil asked. "You weren't simply put there as an object of beauty, were you?"

"Now, don't be sarcastic, please," the eraser said. "I'm sad enough as it is."

"Of course I wasn't put here for beauty but for use, but I've been used almost too much—in fact I have been used too much."

"I'm all at loose ends, I'm shabby and worn. Bits of me are falling off."

"It is Dreadful!"

and I can't stay in my little end place here very well.

"I keep falling out and have to be shoved back in again."

"I have been used so many times when I need not have been used."

"I have been used when a little thought would have saved me the effort and trouble."

"Not that I could have thought, but the one using me could have thought and that would have saved me."

"A mistake has been made and then I have been used to rub it out."

"Often that mistake would not have been made if a little thought had been used in the first place."

"Of course I'm willing enough to help about mistakes, but too much is too much."

"I suppose you're right," the pencil said.

"Well," the pencil added, "I've not always been treated as well as I might have been treated."

"I was a handsome pencil at one time, but I've been chewed and I've been bitten and I'm covered with teeth marks now. I'm rather shabby, too."

"Still, I heard one of the old pencils telling a little pencil family history."

"In the old days," said this pencil, "things were the same."

"Some of the grown-ups will say to the children now that it is dreadful the way they stop and chew their pencils instead of getting on with their work, and they tell them that that is no way to think."

"That is perfectly true of course, but when they were young they often did the same thing, too."

"Oh, yes, if you go back far enough in pencil family history you will find that many a mother and father did the very same when they were young."

"That was what the old pencil told us," the young pencil said. "But still that doesn't really excuse matters."

"We should be treated a little better."

"I think so," the eraser said.

"But it won't do us much good to think so," the pencil remarked.

"Not much," agreed the eraser.

"There are troubles that come to all of us, I suppose," the pencil said.

"I suppose so," agreed the eraser once more.

"Life isn't all fun," the pencil said, and felt it had made a very smart remark. From having written the answers to so many questions and from having done so many stunts the pencil felt it was quite smart.

"But I do feel sorry for myself particularly," the eraser ended, "as I'm almost nothing now."

And that was really perfectly true. There was very little left of the poor little eraser and what was left didn't amount to much.

No Occasion to Refuse

Donald was invited to lunch upon his fourth birthday with his playmate next door, and was reminded by his mother of the small points of etiquette which she wished him to observe.

Upon his return home she asked him if he remembered to say "Please" and "No, thank you."

"I said 'Please,'" he said, "but I didn't say 'No, thank you,' because I took everything they passed me."

GAS BUGGIES—Such Is Life

KEEPING WELL

GOOD GERMS AND BAD GERMS

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN

SO MUCH has been said about the germs that most people think that all germs produce some kind of disease.

This is not correct. The inhabitants of the invisible world are like the larger inhabitants of the visible world. There are good germs and bad germs, just as there are good people and bad people.

Some germs produce dangerous diseases. They are the bad germs and they should be hunted down and destroyed like man-eating tigers and poisonous snakes.

But some germs are not only useful, but indispensable. If there were no germs, there would be no fermentation and fermentation is necessary in many of our everyday activities.

Good germs produce fermentation, by which sugars are converted into alcohol and carbon-dioxide. Certain species of molds when grown in sugar solutions transform sugar into alcohol. Yeasts act directly on sugars with the production of alcohol. Yeasts also digest vegetable matter, producing two kinds of sugar, dextrose and glucose. In the commercial manufacture of alcohol, certain species of molds are used for converting starch into sugar. Yeasts which are naturally grown on the surface of bruised and diseased fruits produce fermentation in the juices, converting them first into cider and later into vinegar. Yeast, mixed with flour and water, converts starch into sugar, producing carbon-dioxide gas. This gas makes bubbles in the dough, causing it to rise.

Micro-organisms which produce lactic acid by their action on carbohydrate are used in the production of sauerkraut, pickles and other fermented foods, also in the manufacture of kumyss. Various kinds of germs are used in the manufacture of different kinds of cheese, as well as to start acid fermentation in milk which is used in making butter.

Various forms of bacteria are necessary for the successful conduct of silos. They are also used in the retting of hemp, a process by which the cellulose binding material holding the fibers of hemp together is rotted in order to get out the bundles of flax or hemp fiber.

Micro-organisms are also used in the production of glycerin and in the ripening of meat and cheese. Germs are also necessary for maintaining the growth of plants in the soil, as they make available nitrogen, sulphur, phosphorus, iron and calcium for the use of the plants. The micro-organisms most valuable for this purpose are bacteria, molds, yeasts and protozoa. Soil bacteriology has come to be an important branch of scientific farming. The bacteria produce nitrogen and convert it into a form in which it can be absorbed by plants.

Great French Dictator
Typical of His Race

Napoleon's character and personality are still under the microscope. One of the best of recent analysis of the great commander is "Napoleon," by Herbert A. L. Fisher, at one time British minister of education. Mr. Fisher has made the French dictator luminous by his phrases. Here, for instance, is a passage on Napoleon as a young man, portraying him as a turbulent example of the people from which he sprang:

"The Corsican bore a character for sobriety, courage and hardihood. He was for him a virtue, vengeance, duty, pardon an infamy. He felt the evil of the clan like a Highlander, Albanian or a Zulu, and was full of the pride and self-assurance common to gallant men who have never met a superior."

"Vigilant and astute in his judgment of character, he was a master of dissimulation save where passion broke in and spoiled the reckoning."

"His standard of honor forbade theft, enjoyed hospitality and tolerance woman as the drudge of the household and field. In general his deportment was noted as grave and social. He was sparing of amusement, would sit at cards without a word and suffer torture without a cry; but when the seal of silence was once broken, language would stream from him like a torrent, an index of that uneasy, impatient, quarrelsome energy which was a common attribute of the race."

Lutherans Urge
Better Churches

Money Being Misspent by Erection of Commonplace, Characterless Structures, Says Committee on Church Architecture—Urges More Care.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Leaders of the Lutheran Church in America have undertaken a campaign to induce congregations to build better churches. To that end they have appointed a committee on church architecture, charged with the duty of guiding and, to an extent, supervising the erection of churches. In its report to the convention of the Lutheran Church in America, in session here, the committee states:

"Many congregations, particularly missions, make the mistake of thinking it unnecessary to secure the services of a thoroughly competent church architect. They believe that the work can be done by any general architect, or, if the building is to be small, even a draftsman or builder will supply them with satisfactory plans."

There are few comparatively church architects even in the larger cities. Unless one of these be employed, congregations cannot expect to erect buildings of architectural merit and churchly character. The employment of a building committee, even though it has men of architectural training, has a specious evil. These draftsmen are rarely qualified to draft church buildings and do not understand the first principles of good church design.

"The money of our people is being misspent and the opportunity of the church for service and influence is being lost by the very general erection of commonplace, characterless structures, designed by men unqualified to do the 'special work'."

Lutheran congregations are urged by the committee, of which the Rev. J. F. Ott of Philadelphia is chairman, to claim the 'explosive' of an able church architect when about to build a church.

During the past two years the committee has audited scores of Lutheran congregations in the building of churches, better suited to their needs than they otherwise would have obtained.

Concerning Parrots

Of the 20 commonly known varieties of parrots, the most talkative ones, according to George Bruce Chapman, head of a London house that has imported and sold the birds for more than a hundred years, are the Brazilian Amazon and the African Gray. The former has bright blue and yellow feathers and red tips to the shoulders and flight wings. The African Gray has a red tail. In Brazil natives watch the nesting places and when the fledglings are a few days old, the feathers of one of the wings are trimmed. Later these birds are easily captured, placed on perches and taken to the nearest village. Fanciers say that the birds should be fed twice a day, and with proper care will live 30 years.

Silk Worms Weave Dyes

A French scientist has succeeded in making silkworms weave dyes into their own output. He is reported to have injected dyes into the cocoons and the result was colored threads being spun. Not only the ordinary shades, but the tones and hues that are made from combining various tints, are produced by the little workers receiving treatment by this process. Silk is usually dyed after it has been wound and twisted into floss, but the new method is expected to grow in colors that will not fade.

BOLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to pneumonia. You can stop them with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

Two Votes Might Name President

If Progressive's Under LaFollette Should Carry Enough States, Switching of Two Votes in House of Representatives Might Determine President.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 3.—Will Tuesday's election be thrown into Congress for decisions?

If it should be, if "Bob LaFollette succeeds in carrying enough votes to prevent either Calvin Coolidge or John W. Davis from obtaining a majority of the electoral college, then tomorrow's march to the polls will have been in vain, and the election of a Chief Magistrate goes into the House of Representatives for the third time in history.

Confusion unprecedented and unparalleled may result. For, while the House has been called upon to elect a President twice in history, never before has an election been thrust into the chamber when party lines were as closely drawn as they are now.

House Unable to Elect.

Should this election go into the House, and should the party lines here remain firm and unbending, the House would be unable to elect a President. It is a remote contingency, of course, but it is one that nevertheless is causing many furrows in the brows of political leaders today.

It is possible—and by some it is even held not to be improbable—that the Twelfth Amendment to the Constitution provides that when no candidate secures a majority of the Electoral College, the House of Representatives shall proceed to elect the President, each state having one vote, making forty-eight votes in all.

To be elected, a candidate must receive a majority of the votes cast, or twenty-five votes in all. As now constituted, the Republicans control twenty-three of these state delegations, or twenty-three votes for the Republican candidate, Calvin Coolidge; the Democrats control twenty-one delegations, or twenty-one votes for John W. Davis; while four delegations are evenly split between Democrats and Republicans, and consequently would be unable to vote unless a Democratic member flopped to the Republicans, or vice versa.

Thus, the members of the Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire and New Jersey delegations become potential president makers in a way the founding fathers never dreamed of. If these states that are evenly divided between the two parties.

Could Break Deadlock.

The deadlock could be broken, for example, by a Democratic member in each of the Montana or Nebraska delegations, voting with the Republicans for Coolidge. Thus carried out to its ultimate conclusion, it would be entirely possible for two members of Congress to elect the next President of the United States. Their flip to the Republicans would add two more votes to the twenty-three the Republicans already have, and constitute a majority of the House. That is just one of the many intriguing possibilities of the situation should the election once get into the House.

As it stands today, the House is made up as follows:

Controlled by Republicans.	Reps.	Dems.
California	9	2
Colorado	3	1
Connecticut	4	1
Idaho	2	0
Illinois	20	7
Indiana	8	5
Iowa	11	0

Virginia	0	10
West Virginia	2	4
XOne vacancy.

States That Are Tied.

Montana	1	1
Nebraska	3	3
New Hampshire	1	1
New Jersey	6	6

Some Are in Doubt.

Something else should be borne in mind. While the Republicans ostensibly have 23 of these delegations, actually there is some doubt as to how some of them would act in a pinch.

Wisconsin, for instance, is listed as a Republican state. Yet all members of the Wisconsin delegation in congress are working heart and soul for La Follette and they might be recalcitrant about voting for Coolidge. Wisconsin congressmen are as independent of the Republican party as is La Follette himself.

The same situation is true, to a lesser degree, of Minnesota and North Dakota.

Should the house be unable to elect, and get into a protracted and unbroken deadlock, then under the Constitution it would be up to the senate to elect either Governor

Charles W. Bryan or General Charles G. Dawes to the presidency.

Senate May Elect.
In the senate the vote will be by individuals and not by states, making 96 in all. Here again is the possibility of a deadlock presented. For, as the situation stands today, there are 51 Republicans, 43 Democrats and two Farmer-Laborites. Ostensibly, it would seem the Republicans had two more than the necessary majority of 49, but again appearances are deceiving, for La Follette himself is numbered as a Republican, and there are four, possibly half a dozen, senators who might not feel called upon to vote for Dawes—namely, Frazier and Ladd, of North Dakota; Norris, of Nebraska and Brookhart, of Iowa.

What would happen if the senate failed to elect, no one knows. The Constitution goes no further than the senate.

Beyond that is darkness, confusion and, perhaps, chaos.

The producers' November price for Class 1 milk for city distribution is $3.07 per 100 pounds (three percent butterfat), at the 201-210 mile freight zone. This is an increase of one cent per quart over the October price. The schedule of prices for November milk in the remaining classes follows: Class 2-A (milk for cream) $1.90, plus skim milk value; Class 2-B (plain condensed and ice cream) $2.05; Class 2-C (soft cheeses) $2.05; Class 3-A (evaporated, sweetened condensed) $1.60; Class 3-B (milk powder and hard cheeses, other than American) $1.55; Class 4-A (butter) and Class 4-B (American cheese) determined by average wholesale price during November of butter and cheese respectively.

Arnold's Wife Shared in Husband's Disgrace

April 8, 1770, Gen. Benedict Arnold and Margaret, better known as Peggy Shippen, were married in Philadelphia. The marriage was the culmination of a wartime romance. The groom, then a trusted subordinate of General Washington, was later to become the most exalted man in American history. Most every one has heard of Arnold's unrepentant treason, and even of his love affair with the charming Peggy.

It was certain that his wife was in absolute ignorance of Arnold's sad adventure. Indeed, as soon as the traitor was sure of his own safety he wrote to General Washington asserting his wife's innocence, and saying: "I beg she may be permitted to return to her friends in Philadelphia, or come to me, as she may choose." Washington, who was a just man, believed in her innocence. He offered to send her with an escort to Philadelphia, or to put her under a flag of truce on the king's ship, Vulture. She chose the former and arrived in Philadelphia about October 1, 1780, says the Detroit News. But she had not been there a month when the council adopted a resolution ordering her to leave the city and not to return during the war. Five years later she came home again, but was treated with so much coldness and neglect, even by those who had encouraged her marriage, that she left again, never to return. She remained with Arnold during the remainder of his broken and disgraced life. He died in London, an embittered and sad man, without a country.

Charming Three-Piece Suit for Autumn Wear

Displayed at a recent fashion show in New York was this winsome three-piece costume, the blouse of gray and rose crepe and the coat and skirt of velveteen in black, striped with gray chenille.

"Return" Habit Costly to Parties Concerned

Have you an overgrown "return" habit? Or do you, on the other hand, dread, as much as anyone, the possibility of buying goods that some one else has taken home, tried on repeatedly—and perhaps even worn?

One out of every three articles sold in the average shop, states a New York store manager, is returned for exchange or credit. This practice, he says, results in a loss to the store—and the store generally and justifiably makes up the loss by increase in the price of other articles. Such a system means that the woman who hasn't the "return" habit must pay for the usually merely indecisive, sometimes unscrupulous, nature of the woman who has.

The custom of taking goods from the stores on approval grew up before emphasis began to be laid on sanitation, and has been losing ground of late. Most stores today refuse to take back articles for personal use, such as combs and brushes, and sometimes place labels in prominent places on wearing apparel, refusing to permit their return when a missing label signifies that the garment may have been worn by the customer. The label device grew out of the desire to protect both shoppers and merchants against certain conscienceless persons who wore the borrowed garments on one or more occasions and then returned them to the store to be sold to an unsuspecting customer. This type of person induced some merchants to limit the period in which goods might be exchanged or returned to a very few days.

It is calculated that in many stores the return practice renders about one-third of the work of the delivery department absolute waste. Even conservative stores report about 20 percent of their merchandise returned. From an economic standpoint this state of affairs is unprofitable, both to merchant and consumer—in waste of effort and expense to the former and in increased price to the buyer.

Russet, Green, Fuchsia, in Limelight for Fall

Venetian fuchsia, shutter-green and burnt russet are the three fall colors which have pledged their troth to fashion, says the Kansas City Star.

Venetian fuchsia is a rich violet-red simulating the beauty and spirit of art expression during the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries and made famous by the great masters of the Italian Renaissance. It is especially adapted to evening gowns and wraps in satins, chiffons, velvets and metallic weaves, and will be used in combination with luxurious fur trimmings. As a millinery shade it promises to be in vogue not only in soft tones, but blended artfully with deeper shades of the colors which shade into purple.

Burnt russet is the glistening brown of autumnal foliage—when rich with the golden luster of sun-dipped orange fused with burnt tawny tan. This is an especially smart afternoon color and will be employed not only in silken fabrics, but in woollens.

Shutter-green is sometimes called the colonial shade—a green with soft-grayed tonalities, restful and inviting. It is the season's innovation for suitings and coats, and will find unusual expression in the ensemble costume, which is the last word in fashion. It is a green that all women can wear, as it has none of the harsh tendencies which many shades of the green possess. It will be used in smart contrast with black and with the soft brown and gray furs.

In their desperation to prevent my election to Congress, which is now assured, and fearful of Kingston giving me a tremendous complimentary vote, the Republican City Committee has sent a communication to the voters of Kingston ostensibly from J. Charles Snyder, Chairman, and Dr. Mary Gage-Day, Secretary, with a plea to vote against me, a resident of Kingston, on the grounds of partisan politics.

Messrs. Elting, Eckert and others are the real authors of this incorrect and wilfully misleading letter, which has now made my election certain, as the people of Kingston resent orders to vote against their fellow-townsmen. Let each candidate speak for himself out in the open.

Here is my reply to those self-seeking politicians:

I will support all legislation for the rational progress of our Country and will uphold the President chosen by the American people.

I put patriotism above politics.

Lead Roofs Need Attention

The leaden roofs of some of England's old churches, a heritage from medieval times, occasionally have to be melted down, rolled over and then replaced. The lead itself is indestructible, but it has been found that at the end of every 200 years the metal should be recast to give the best results as a roofing material.

Little Lord Fauntleroy Author Is Dead.

MRS. FRANCES BURNETT

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and scores of other popular books, is dead at her Plandome, Long Island, N. Y., home, at the age of seventy-five. She was one of the world's highest paid writers, many of her works netting her 10 cents a word. In two years she received $200,000 in royalties, one book paying her $2,000 a week for a few months.

Not the "Lumberjack" Dentist Had Thought

A certain dentist lived in Quebec who charged his patients not by the amount of work done, but by their capacity to pay.

One day a crew of lumberjacks came in from up the river with a boom of logs from the timber regions of the North. One of the men suffered from a toothache and consulted the dentist. After making an extraction the dentist regarded the logger for a moment and then, when the bearded man from the woods commenced to feel for his change, he asked him what he did for a living.

"Oh, I usually work around a mill," was the reply.

"Then your charge will be 50 cents," said the dentist.

The logger hauled from his pocket a huge wad of currency of staggering denominations and commenced to finger the bills. The dentist was amazed.

"I thought you said you worked around a mill," he said, as he rummaged in his cash drawer for change.

"Well, so I do," said the logger calmly. "I own the mill."

The dentist subsequently learned that the "poor logger" that he had treated for 50 cents was John Rudolph Booth, one of the richest men in Canada and outstanding lumber magnate of the continent.—Forbes Magazine.

Reached From Grave to Deliver Rebukes

The following is an excerpt from the will of a Wall street man, which was published in the New York courts:

"To my wife, I leave her lover and the knowledge that I wasn't the fool she thought I was."

"To my son, I leave the pleasure of earning a living. For thirty-five years he has thought that the pleasure was all mine. He was mistaken."

"To my daughter, I leave $100,000. She will need it. The only good piece of business her husband ever did was to marry her."

"To my valet, I leave the clothes that he has been stealing from me regularly for the past ten years. Also my fur coat that he wore last winter when I was in Palm Beach."

"To my chauffeur, I leave my car. He almost ruined them and I want him to have the satisfaction of finishing the job."

"To my partner, I leave the suggestion that he take some other clever man in with him at once if he expects to do any business."—Wall Street Journal.

The Cup of Paris

Paris, the great gay city, is contained within a cup, says a writer in the Continental edition of the London Daily Mail. You may discover it one day perhaps from a pleasant roof garden and be suddenly surprised to find the city so definitely contained. Wherever you will look there at last appear the soft green hills peeping so serenely down upon the welter of life in the city below. You may even see the trees on the hills, so near are they. We used to think the city was so big and spread so far, and the Place de la Concorde, what a mighty space it was! There even now we see the dome of the Pantheon, the towers of Notre Dame, the sudden smoky shoot of the Eiffel tower. Gigantic things we used to think them. But now how easily they are held in the cup of the laughing hills!

All About Dogs and Cats

From a schoolboy's essay on dogs and cats:

"The dog is the commonest of all animals. Its legs are four and one tail of all sizes. Cats are very common in all large towns and streets, but dogs are more so. There is only three things wiser than the dog, which is himself, all monkeys, and all elephants. Don't tease cats, for firstly it is wrong so to do and second cats have claws which is longer than people think. Cats have nine lives, but which is seldom required in this country because of Christianity."

Hold Tortoise in Esteem

The tortoise, in the flowery empire of Japan, is regarded as a symbol of youth and is venerated. Wedding garments have tortoiseshell painted on them, as also have New Year's gifts. A legend heard in China states that the tortoise is supposed to have borne upon its shell the basis of moral teachings and the secrets of the unseen. It is more revered in China than among practical Japanese. When fishermen around any of the seaports haul a large one in with their catch, they find a Chinese merchant to buy it. The Chinaman then carves his name on the shell, that the animal may know to whom it owes its life, and taking it out into deep water allows it to go free, thus insuring a prosperous long life for himself.

Women Arrested At Hotel Eichler

Elizabeth Miller of Delaware Avenue had Mrs. John Tancredi and Mrs. May Fischer arrested on charge of hurrying dishes and trays at her.

Mrs. John Tancredi and Mrs. May Fischer were arrested Sunday afternoon at the Hotel Eichler on Railroad avenue by the police on the complaint of Mrs. Elizabeth Miller of No. 650 Delaware avenue, who appeared at police headquarters cut about the face, and had her wounds treated at the Kingston City Hospital.

According to Mrs. Miller's story, the other two women had hurled dishes and trays at her, inflicting the wounds she sustained. Officer Martin went to the hotel and arrested Mrs. Fischer and found Mrs. Tancredi in bed. She claimed she was too ill to arise and she was left in bed after Dr. John F. Larkin had issued a certificate to the effect that she was too ill to be moved.

Both Mrs. Fischer and Mrs. Tancredi were held in the sum of $500 for their appearance later in police court. This morning the hearing was adjourned to November 13. Mrs. Miller has retained Frank W. Brooks as her attorney while the other two women have retained Andrew J. Cook.

According to the police report, broken dishes were found on the floor at the hotel and also some broken windows.

Wall Street Odds On Election

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 3.—In the betting parts of Wall Street today odds of 10 to 1 and 11 to 1 were being laid on President Coolidge to win.

Two to one and 11 to 5 were the odds quoted on the Al Smith-Theodore Roosevelt fight for the governorship, Smith being the favorite.

Even money was offered that Coolidge will have in excess of 300 votes in the electoral college.

Four to one was offered that the election will not be thrown into congress.

Davis Resting For Last Speech

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 3.—John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee, rested today on the labors of his three months' drive for the White House, confident of success in tomorrow's election, remaining in seclusion at his Locust Valley, L. I., home. His only engagement before the opening of ballot boxes was a scheduled address over the radio tonight. The nominee will "take the air" at WEAF, a New York station, at 8:15 tonight, speaking to his unseen audience for thirty minutes.

Seven other broadcasting stations located in Washington, Schenectady, Pittsburgh, Hastings, Neb., St. Louis, Memphis and Chicago, will carry his final address from coast to coast.

In a final message to Democratic party workers, Davis urged them to "get out a full vote." He stressed the act of voting as the greatest duty facing the American citizen.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 3.—A late night attempt to wreck the Westerner, crack New York Central flyer at the Orange street crossing, was frustrated shortly after 10 o'clock last night when the train was brought to a grinding halt, five feet short of a ten inch shell, weighing 500 pounds, which it loaded would have contained enough high explosive to wreck the train and adjacent homes, it became known today.

Dim lights of the engine, used when passing through cities, did not disclose the presence of the shell on the track until the heavy train was nearly upon it.

CAR ON WRONG SIDE, DRIVER HELD AFTER ACCIDENT

Miss Emilie Klesow of Jamaica, L. I., received bad cuts about the face and hands as the result of the head-on collision of the Ford touring car in which she was riding, with the Studebaker car belonging to Mrs. Fred G. Randall at the corner of Main street and Grand avenue, Highland, 7 o'clock Sunday night. William Wickman, who drove the Ford car, is charged with reckless driving and will appear before Justice of Peace Harold Lent, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Highland.

After the accident Deputy Sheriff Collins noted that the Wickman car was on the Randall car's side of the road. Mr. Wickman had no license with him and his car is held by Justice Lent as bail for his appearance. Both cars were taken to the Square Deal Garage nearby. Mrs. W. Klesow and son Robert were in Mr. Wickman's car. In the Randall car were Mrs. Fred G. Randall, Misses Lois and Ellen Randall, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Randall. Miss Klesow was the only person hurt.

Coolidge's Last Appeal Is "Vote"

Will Radiocast Appeal to Every Citizen to Vote—Speech to be Delivered at Ten O'clock Tonight.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 3.—Confident that tomorrow's election will return him to the White House by a landslide proportionate to that of 1920, President Coolidge today devoted himself to the preparation of the "last word of campaign" the radio speech he will deliver tonight at 10 o'clock.

The president will confine himself this evening to an appeal to every citizen to "do his duty to his country and vote." With 24 radio stations covering the entire country hooked up for the event, the presidential utterances are expected to be heard by the largest number of people ever reached by one voice.

Indications have reached the White House that a tremendous popular vote will be polled tomorrow. According to estimates made by C. Bascom Sloop, the presidential secretary, between 35 and 40 million ballots will be cast, compared with the 27,000,000 in 1920.

Esopus Bridge Now Completed

Will Be Open to Traffic Shortly—Town Board of Ulster Met With Board of Public Works Saturday—To Prepare Plans for Proposed Railroad Tunnel.

The town board of the town of Ulster and the board of public works of this city met at the new bridge across the Esopus creek at Higginville late Saturday afternoon, and inspected the structure. The matter of fixing the date for throwing the bridge open to traffic was left in the hands of Superintendent Van Keuren of the board of public works and John Halwick, town superintendent. It was decided to advertise for bids for the removal of portions of the temporary wooden bridge used as a detour while the new bridge was under construction.

Later the board of public works inspected the site of the proposed tunnel under the West Shore railroad at Sterling street, and City Engineer Hallinan was directed to make a survey and plans of the proposed tunnel and report at the next meeting of the board. The plan of constructing a tunnel under the railroad tracks was brought up at the last meeting of the board of public works by Mayor Morris Block.

Installing New Telephone Cables

Six Carloads Are to Go in Kingston—Conduits to Take Care of New Subscribers and Provide for Future Growth.

A great many people have noticed the large reels of cable now being unloaded by the New York Telephone Company and which are being placed at street corners near the manholes. Each reel weighs approximately 8,200 pounds and altogether there are six carloads of this new cable. It will probably take in the neighborhood of three months to get it pulled down the manholes and into the underground ducts and spliced up with the existing equipment.

The telephone system in Kingston is growing, approximately 400 stations being added each year, and this new cable will provide sufficient additional lines to take care of growth for several years to come. Additional equipment is, of course, also being added in the central office to match up with the outside plant.

Plans have to be completed for additional equipment of this sort many months in advance of the time it will be needed and it is interesting to note in this particular instance that within the past few weeks the last available line in two or three different sections of the city has been used and the company has been obliged to furnish party line service temporarily to people who applied for individual service. Instead. Of course the company will be able to give these subscribers the better class of service just as soon as the new work is completed and this is just cited as an illustration of how accurately the engineering department works out these problems.

MEN AND WOMEN IN THE NEWS SPOTLIGHT

Below FLORENCE ALLEN, BETTY FITCH, DOROTHY DALTON & MICKEY FOKINE.

Betty Fitch, one of the members of the cast of Earl Carroll's Vanities, offered $4,000 ring as bail when Carroll was held in $350 bond for displaying alleged obscene pictures in lobby of his theatre, but he refused bail and went to Tombs "for principle." Florence Allen, sprightly New York show girl, weakened in her battle with life and attempted to die by poison. When physicians pulled her through, she said she was sorry, and that she wouldn't try it again. Dorothy Dalton, motion picture actress, lost her court fight to recover $5,000 for dresses lost from her trunks in a New York city hotel's storeroom, the court holding she assumed the responsibility when she placed them there. Mickey Fokine, famous Russian dancer, lost $1,500 because of his temper. He sued the Shuberts for that amount, which he was to have received for rehearsing his ballet. At the first rehearsal, some one laughed at his scanty costume and he left the theatre in a huff and refused to return. The courts ruled against him.

Farm Bureau Gets Members by Mail

The Farm Bureau "Join by Mail" Campaign is getting results. The week following the mailing of the bills 125 members mailed their checks covering dues for 1925. These results are well ahead of expectations and will prove a great saving to the Bureau in making the usual farm to farm canvass for members. Because of the expense, loss of time and labor involved the directors have hoped by encouraging members to renew by mail, to greatly reduce costs of a personal canvass, and it is believed once the custom of joining without solicitation becomes established this expense can be entirely removed. Ulster county has been a pioneer in this voluntary renewal idea. In 1924 302 members either mailed or paid in person at the Farm Bureau office. At present the daily receipts of memberships indicate an even greater return for 1925.

On November 10th, the farm to farm visit by canvassers will open, continuing until the date of the annual meeting on December 3rd, at which time a complete membership report for the county will be given out.

Killed Waitress, Then Shot Himself

Middleton, N. Y., Nov. 3.—A deputy sheriff sat today beside the Thrall hospital out of Jack Loomis, 26, waiting for him to recover from two self-inflicted bullet wounds in his chest, so he might be charged with the murder of Miss Emily Underreiner, pretty blonde waitress of 22.

Loomis killed her in Monticello when she, another waitress and two men returned from an automobile ride. Loomis and Miss Underreiner had been companions for three years until they quarrelled two months ago.

Friends said Loomis had been keeping close watch upon the girl since their spat, jealous of each new friendship.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Nov. 3.—Professional bulls in the stock market were not ready today to relinquish their control over the market leaders in the industrial specialty groups.

The urgency of short covering by the outwitted bears made it all the more desirable for them to mark up prices of high priced speculative leaders to the highest level of the year. It was this spectacular climbing of East Iron Pipe, American Radiator and others which supplied the real feature of the last session of the stock market before the election.

That the bears were not completely driven from the field is shown by the way in which they attacked stocks in another section of the market, and followed up their attacks whenever there were any signs of yielding. American Water Works was pounded down to 106 for a loss of 5 points; Davison Chemical lost about 3 points at 45; Cuylen Paint and Daniel Boone Woolen declined to new lows for the year and Willis Overland received a heavy volume of selling which it was unable to absorb without losing more than 2 points. The bears worked on American Can, U. S. Steel and Baldwin, however, and any attempt to depress them met with failure.

Both the steel and the railroad shares were in good form today, the latter equalling in average price the highest of the month to date. East Iron Pipe made a further gain of about 3 points in the third hour and registered a new high for the year at 122 1/2; International Harvester gained nearly 5 points at 98 1/2; American Can sold in good time at Saturday's closing; fractional gains marked trading in the oils, though these shares were very inactive; sugars regained part of last week's losses. Coppers were firm but inactive.

Many Fires in Forests and City

Kingston Fire Department Called to Lake Katrine Where Brimley Bungalow Is Destroyed—Numerous Smaller Fires Keep Firemen Busy.

Although several small forest fires are burning in this vicinity, there are no fires reported by the fire wardens in the Catskill mountain region. From the fire tower on top of Tremper mountain the fire warden this morning reported no fires visible in the mountains although he could see smoke in the neighborhood of Highland on the river and some smoke across the Shawangunks in the vicinity of High Falls.

Sunday a fire burned over a considerable amount of woodland at Highland, the fire being mostly on the property of John Lucas, east of the village, on the ridge above the river. This fire was confined to the territory to the south and west of the road leading to the Highland ferry. Late Sunday evening the fire had evidently been placed under control but later the fire warden reported smoke in that direction.

A fire burned over a considerable amount of woodland in town of Esopus to the east of the Twin Lakes at Ulster Park. The fire started on the Schleide property, was burning briskly in the early morning on the east shore of the two lakes and was driven by the high wind in a northwesterly direction. A large force of men worked all day and by night the fire was thought to be out, but later broke out. Two men were busy all night. Later the fire was reported out. The fire burned as far north as the farm of Dr. Nelson.

At Lake Katrine a fire started late Saturday afternoon and continued to burn throughout the night in spite of the work of a number of men to prevent the flames from spreading. Sunday afternoon the fire was placed under control and it was thought the fire was out but later in the evening it again broke out and spread rapidly.

The fire burned to the north of the lake where there are numerous bungalows and at times these were threatened. The bungalow of Grant M. Brimley was fired about 8:30 o'clock in the evening by burning embers and was destroyed. On account of the high wind which was blowing the fire fighters found their task a difficult one.

Shortly after noon Sunday word was sent to this city for fire fighting equipment to combat the flames and Chief Murphy went to the scene with the pumper from Central fire station, but on account of the distance of the fire from the lake it was impossible for the equipment to be used. However, the local firemen gave their assistance by carrying water and at that time extinguished flames which had communicated to the Brimley bungalow. After putting out the fire, which threatened the several bungalows, the firemen returned.

While the pumper from Central station was at Lake Katrine the equipment from Excelsior Hose house was transferred to the Central station.

Again at about 8:30 p. m. the fire department was called out to assist in fighting the fire which had again approached dangerously near the bungalow colony. The Brimley bungalow again took fire and before the fire department arrived had been consumed. The second call was responded to by Excelsior Hose equipment which was sent on in charge of Fire Commissioner Eltinge. On account of the distance which the road runs from the lake the pumper equipment was of no use. In order for the pumper to be of use there must be a good road, over which the pumper can be driven to within fifteen feet from the water, as this is the limit from which suction can be taken. Water can be forced a great distance from the equipment provided the water is within fifteen feet of the apparatus.

With the two calls from Lake Katrine and the calls within the city limits the local department was kept on the jump all day. Several grass fires within the city were extinguished on Saturday and Sunday.

At 4:50 Saturday afternoon a fire in the woods in the neighborhood of the Mayfield Golf Club links was extinguished. Water can be forced a great distance from the equipment provided the water is within fifteen feet of the apparatus.

At 11:30 fire in another portion of the woods near the Golf Club called the firemen out again. Again on Sunday morning a third call was sent in for a fire in the same location.

Sunday evening a grass fire in a vacant lot on West Chestnut street gave the firemen another run.

Between answering calls to extinguish burning grass and leaves the firemen answered a call Saturday afternoon at the camp of the Kingston Fair Grounds where an old automobile body was on fire. This fire was dangerously near some sheds. It was extinguished in short order.

The same afternoon at about 5 o'clock a fire in the laundry of the Eagle Hotel called the firemen to Main street. Gas which had been turned up too high on a mantle had set the wrapping on fire.

Coolidge Thanks All Workers

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Nov. 3.—President Coolidge this afternoon sent the following telegram to the Republican national committee headquarters at Washington, New York and Chicago:

"Please post up this message as my thanks and appreciation to the loyal and efficient workers at headquarters and their associates in the field from the national chairman to the precinct committee member. No campaign ever had such service."

Martial Law Restores Order

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Niles, Ohio, Nov. 3.—With order restored, and about 25 persons, members of the Ku Klux Klan and their sworn foe, the Knights of the Flaming Circle, under arrest, charged with inciting to riot, order has been restored in Niles today under the martial law proclamation of Governor A. V. Donahey late Saturday.

Five hundred guardsmen, composing units from Akron, Warren and Youngstown, nearby cities, were still patrolling the streets today, and the militia were assisting local officials in gathering evidence to present to the courts against those charged with responsibility for the outbreak of racial hatred which resulted in a casualty list of thirteen, Saturday, one of whom may die.

Bouquets for Chief Murphy

In honor of his appointment as chief of the Kingston Fire Department Chief Joseph L. Murphy was presented Saturday with several handsome bouquets of flowers from his friends.

Chief Murphy, who for several years held the position of deputy chief, was promoted to the office of chief of the department when the resignation of Chief Chipp went into effect on November first. The first official duty of Chief Murphy was to answer an unusual number of alarms over Saturday and Sunday when dry grass and leaves kept the department on the jump.

Smith Confident Of Another Term

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 3.—With the election a few hours away, Governor Al Smith was confident today that the Smith family would spend two more years in the Executive Mansion at Albany.

From last minute reports which Governor Smith received from Democratic leaders in all parts of the state, he predicted his election over Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, his Republican opponent, by upwards of 400,000.

The governor said he would be at least half a million votes ahead of Roosevelt in Greater New York, and he also expected to sweep many of the large upstate cities.

Governor Smith will speak three times tonight, but only at two of the meetings will he appeal for votes. He will open the third annual Radio Exposition in Grand Central Palace, but his addresses, which will be broadcast will be non-partisan. Later in the evening he will address two Democratic rallies on the East Side.

Recorded Their Fear of Premature Burial

Fears of premature burial have resulted in the formation of a society to effect reforms in the law of death certification, writes Arthur Pendens in 57th St. No. 1, nominal; No. 2, 58; No. 3, 56 @ 58 1/2; No. 4, 55.

The Egyptians kept the bodies of the dead under careful supervision by the priests previous to embalming and until satisfied that life was extinct. The Greeks were aware of the dangers of premature burial and often cut off the fingers of a person believed to be dead before cremation.

In modern times, the fear of being buried alive has haunted many. Wilkie Collins had this fear, and always left overnight on his dressing table a note solemnly enjoining that, should he be found dead, his supposed death was to be carefully tested by a doctor. Hans Andersen always carried a note in his pocket to the same effect. Harriet Martineau left her doctor $50 to see that her head was amputated before burial.

Drowned Out Conscience

The preacher had told Uncle Ben that in moments of temptation he must listen to the still, small voice of conscience. And Uncle Ben, in the conduct of his second-hand store, tried hard to obey the injunction.

But when Miranda Jones in a moment of unguarded enthusiasm, offered him $5 for a cat's dress for which he hadn't expected to get more than $1.44, he couldn't withstand it. "Ah, hell," he confessed to the preacher afterward. "Ah couldn't help it."

"Didn't you listen to the voice of conscience?" asked the minister. "Ah listened hard," was the answer, "but honest. Ah couldn't hear nuthin' 'fo' the sound of the cash register."

Words That Work Hard

There are words it is almost impossible to avoid using, however carefully we may try to do so.

It is said that a quarter of the task of expressing oneself in the English language is borne by nine words, and, be, have, it, of, the, to, will and you. It is also asserted that these nine, with 34 other words, form half the words the average talker uses in ordinary conversation.

The additional 34 words are as follows: About, all, as, at, but, can, come, day, dear, for, get, go, hear, if, in, me, much, not, on, say, she, so, that, these, they, this, thy, time, we, with, write, your, her, and, one.

Record Hailstones
The maximum possible size of hailstones cannot be positively stated, but weighing more than a pound have several times been reported. During a hailstorm in Natal, on April 17, 1874, stones fell that weighed one and one-half pounds. Hailstones 14 inches in circumference fell in New South Wales in February, 1847.

Clinton Avenue Quintets Win

Juniors Beat Presbyterian Five by 24 to 0 Score and Seniors Down Comforter Team 21 to 10.

Saturday night at Epworth Hall the Clinton Avenue basketball teams opened the 1924-25 season with two wins.

In the preliminary game, the Clinton Avenue Juniors defeated the Presbyterians by a 24-0 score. This is the fourth defeat handed the Presbyterians in as many games. Red Chipp was the outstanding star being responsible for thirteen of the twenty-four points scored by his team. E. Greenwell, the new center, showed up well, making six points. Captain Chipp played a good floor game. The Tongue brothers starred for the Presbyterians.

The game was not the most thrilling one that has been played here, but it was hard fought to the last minute and not without its exciting moments. The local team had several ripe chances to score. Early in the first quarter the Maroon and White threatened Peckskill's goal line and Tetley tried a drop kick which failed. Tetley also tried another drop kick in the third quarter which failed by only a slight margin. Kingston attempted large number of forward passes, most of which were uncompleted.

Peterson Stars.
Several men stood out in the backfield while the lines appeared to be about equal. Probably the most outstanding players of the game in the backfield were Peterson and Cables. For Peckskill and Tetley and Herzog for Kingston. Peterson, Peckskill's giant negro fullback, was a veritable terror for the Kingston team, which seemed unable to stop him. His gains on off-tackle plays were the outstanding feature of the game. Cables, Peckskill's plucky quarterback had a clear head and excellent judgment in running the team, besides making many long gains and doing some nice punting and passing.

Herzog's Good Work.
The Kingston backfield was slightly altered in the replacement for Disch of Herzog, who played a great defensive game. Besides recovering a fumble and getting some pretty tackles, Herzog at one time prevented Peckskill from gaining another touchdown. On a long forward pass from Cables to Dorsey in the second quarter, Dorsey had a clear field ahead of him for a touchdown. Already he had shaken off several tacklers and six points and possibly seven seemed almost certain for Peckskill when, from the opposite side of the field came racing Herzog who gave a leap at Dorsey and nailed him on the five yard line. Tetley proved to be Kingston's best man in carrying the ball and he got off some pretty passes more of which should have been completed.

Kingston Starts Strong.
At the opening of the game Peterson kicked off to Rice, who ran the ball back eighteen yards. Kingston outplayed the visitors in the first quarter, having the ball most of the time and trying for a field goal once. For the rest of the game, however, Peckskill ran rings around the locals in every department of the game except punting. Here Kingston had a clear advantage. Tetley, who punted for Kingston, averaged around thirty-five yards on some occasions, getting off forty-five yard punts. Cables, who punted for Peckskill, averaged around thirty yards.

The Line-ups.
The teams lined-up as follows:
Kingston, O. Peckskill, T.

Kingston Lost Hard Struggle

Peckskill Eleven Captures Game From K. H. S. in Final Minutes. Score 7 to 0—Game Hard Fought From Start to Finish.

Displaying a superior offense in a fast, well coached and experienced backfield, the Peckskill High boys defeated Kingston High School by a 7 to 0 score Saturday at the Athletic Field. The lone touchdown came in the final minutes, the result of a series of line plunges and off tackle plays by Peterson and Hankins, both of whom played sterling games for Peckskill. Peckskill won and deserved to win, and had it not been for her many breaks and the alertness of Kingston men in recovering the ball, she probably would have run up a much larger score. These breaks in the form of fumbles and off-side penalties nearly spelled defeat for the visitors on several occasions when Kingston men recovered fumbles near her goal line. It was in these stages that Peckskill showed her strong defense. As in former games this season, Kingston presented a defense which greatly overshadowed its offense. Both teams used off tackle plays to a large extent and through them Peckskill gained most of her ground.

Notre Dame and Illinois Lead

Ellevens in the Middle West—As Result of Games Saturday California and Stanford Dominate on Coast But South and East Remain in Muddle.

By Davis J. Walsh.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Ill., Nov. 3.—Illinois and Notre Dame remained the dominant teams in the middle west as a result of Saturday's football games; California and Stanford continue to rule the coast but the east and south remained in a muddle. In the two latter regions, the situation, if any, features at least three teams that have a chance for the sectional title.

In the others, definite contenders already have been developed and outlined by the season's play to date.

In this section Illinois and Notre Dame are the only contenders in sight, although Marquette has its hopes. The Illini, however, just about clinched the big ten title by its overwhelming victory over Iowa, and seemingly Chicago and Ohio State, neither of which are particularly strong, are the only outfits that stand between Zuppke and another championship.

Chicago still is tied with the Illini at two victories each but the Maroon has one tie game where Illini has none and the respective showing of the two teams indicate a down state decision when they meet next Saturday.

Penn's victory over Lafayette served to designate the Philadelphia entry as one, if not the only, bell cow in the east. Seemingly Pennsylvania has its best team since 1916, and will go through the season unbeaten if it can climb over Cornell on Thanksgiving day.

On the coast, California maintained its four year record unblemished by taking Southern California, 7 to 0. The team from Los Angeles literally was loaded for bear in this game but couldn't quite make the rifle against the champions. The Stanford-California game, therefore, became all the more important. Warner's entry having defeated Santa Clara.

In the south, Georgia and Alabama again came to the fore with respective victories over Tennessee and Mississippi by generous scores. The general situation in the south, however, is about as clear as a perfectly good bottle of ink.

Include Yale, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Lehigh and Rutgers

—This Year's Teams Are Well Coached and Great Games Are Looked Forward To.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 3.—Yale, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Lehigh and Rutgers are the undefeated teams of the east. Yale kept its slate clean by fighting it out to a tie with the Army in the New Haven bowl. Syracuse held its grasp on the top-most rung through a tie with Pittsburgh. Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, Lehigh and Rutgers charged up wins.

Outside of this select class, the triumph of Cornell over Columbia up at Ithaca was the big outstanding happening on eastern grids on the past week end. Gilmour Dobie moved a notch higher in football rating through the well-seasoned win his Ithaca charges delivered.

Lou Young looks to have a championship outfit at Pennsylvania. The former Red and Blue star has more than made good with his task of putting the Philadelphia seat of learning back on the football map. McGinley is one of the best playing tackles of the year. His play against Lafayette was the most spectacular line display since the days of Dr. Draper.

Coach McCracken brought a fine squad to Philadelphia. They fought with a spirit that won admiration. But Penn always outflights itself against Lafayette.

Yale was rather lucky to hold the West Pointers to a tie score. The Army has a finely coached outfit this year, make no mistake of this fact. The way they smashed through the fighting Blue team in the final quarter of the contest does not lend encouragement to their Navy rivals.

Dartmouth beat Brown with something to spare. Jess Hawley keyed his men up to their best efforts. The present Green outfit looks the greatest Dartmouth team of recent years. They should give a good account of themselves against Cornell two weeks hence.

Syracuse encountered stiff opposition from Pittsburgh, which always plays its best game up at the Salt City. Chick Mehan's outfit must be given credit for their fight. As far as rushing was concerned, Syracuse was right there.

Lehigh and Rutgers kept their places in the undefeated division by some real first-class football. Jim Baldwin has worked wonders at Bethlehem. They are going to give Lafayette a real battle two weeks hence.

The remaining big teams came through Harvard, Princeton, Penn State, Holy Cross, Boston College, Carnegie Tech, Williams, Bucknell, Colgate and West Virginia played good football.
